Form Response from Shippensburg University

Note from FIRE: The following email is being sent by Shippensburg University to those who inquire about its speech codes:

Shippensburg University strongly and vigorously defends the right of free speech. As an institution of higher education we encourage and promote free speech among and between individuals and organizations. Through the exercise of this important right our students are able to see various aspects of an idea, analyze those ideas and form their own opinions on those ideas.

The university is also committed to the principle that this discussion be conducted appropriately. We do have expectations that our students will conduct themselves in a civil manner that allows them to express their opinions without interfering with the rights of others.

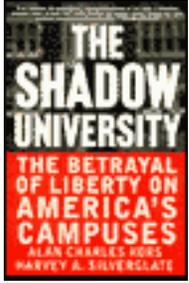

Information on the lawsuit has been given to our legal counsel for review.
