

To submit a case to FIRE, click here.

To contact FIRE, click here.

The Washington Times

SITE SEARCH

CLASSIFIEDS | ARCHIVES | SUBSCRIBE | CONTACT US | ABOUT TWT

AP BREAKING NEWS

April 3, 2003

Rutgers lifts ban on Christian fellowship

By Lou Marano
UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

WASHINGTON, April 3 (UPI) -- Faced with a lawsuit, Rutgers University has lifted a ban on a student Christian group that insisted its officers be Christian.

Last September, Rutgers' Director of Student Involvement Lawanda D. Irving "derecognized" the InterVarsity Multi-Ethnic Christian Fellowship on the grounds that requiring a group's leaders to agree with its beliefs constituted impermissible discrimination. The fellowship, whose membership is open to all, was stripped of university funding and denied the use of campus facilities.

Rutgers is the state university of New Jersey.

The matter came to the attention of FIRE -- the Foundation for Individual Rights in Education -- a Philadelphia-based campus watchdog group founded in 1999 by University of Pennsylvania historian Alan Charles Kors and Boston civil rights attorney Harvey A. Sliverglate.

In December, FIRE wrote to Rutgers President Richard L. McCormick, to members of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Governors, and to major donors, urging that the decision be reversed.

With the support of the Alliance Defense Fund, a Phoenix-based public-interest law organization, FIRE Legal Network attorney David A. French filed a lawsuit against Rutgers on Dec. 30 in the Federal District Court of New Jersey for violating the First Amendment rights of fellowship students.

The First Amendment, which constrains only government, states in part: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

On Wednesday, Rutgers Associate Director of Communications Sandra E. Lanman sent United Press International a joint statement

Top Stories

- Iraq levels new threat
- Rice says U.S. to have 'leading' role in Iraq
- Coalition still wary of chemical weapons
- Remains of 9 back in U.S. to be identified
- Atlantic editor Kelly first 'embedded' fatality of war
- Health officials get OK for SARS quarantine

- Deafening Explosions Rock Central Baghdad
- U.S. Says Iraq Guard Not a Cohesive Force
- American Forces Probe Baghdad Defenses
- U.S. Discusses Rescue, Bodies Recovered
- WHO Experts Investigate SARS in China

UPI BREAKING NEWS

Updated at 9:30 p.m.

- U.S. forces rush into center of Baghdad
- Eight killed were in Jessica Lynch unit
- General describes Lynch rescue mission
- Commentary:Michael Kelly, stirring the pot
- Iraqi TV airs new Saddam message
- Feature: Odyssey of a human shield
- Baghdad raid by U.S. meant to send message
- American peace activist shot in West Bank

DAILY

- Front Page
- Nation/Politics
- World
- Commentary
- Opinion/Editorial
- Metropolitan
- Sports
- Business
- Technology
- Entertainment
- Culture
- Weather

WEEKLY

- Family Times
- Auto Weekend
- Wash. Weekend
- Books
- Home Guide
- Arts
- Nat'l Weekly Edition

MARKETPLACE

- Classifieds
- Gift Guide
- TWT Gift Shop
- Tourist Guide
- Int'l Special Reports
- Employment Extra

from the university and the fellowship saying the issues had been "amicably resolved" and the lawsuit "will now be withdrawn."

"The university assured the fellowship that its voting members are permitted to take into account both their own religious beliefs and those of candidates when selecting and voting for their leaders under university policy," the statement said.

FIRE called the outcome "a resounding victory for freedom of conscience."

◀ Back to UPI

All site contents copyright © 1999-2003 News World Communications, Inc.
Privacy Policy

 Click here to learn more
You can't grow it back by doing nothing!

International Reports.net
more reports coming & even more archived
click here

Tired of Losing Your Hair?
You can't grow it back by doing nothing!
 Click here to learn more

Awareness
Patriotic Pins
ORDER NOW!